WATER AMOUNT IN SNOW VERY LOW THIS YEAR

NEVADA CITY: William Fox, acting ranger of the Tahoe National Forest at Big Bend, and Gordon C. Vance, central fire dispatcher in the forest service headquarters here, made the March measures over the Huysink snow course last week, and found the snow depth twice as great as during February measurement.

Snow was 41 inches with a water content of 15.8 inches, as compared with 20 inches and 8.4 inches water content on February 3rd. The average water content on April 3rd, over many years, has been 53.7 inches. The measurements are used by the state's hydrological experts to forecast the water supply for power and irrigation requirements.

BEALE WILL BE USED AS BOMB TARGET

NEVADA CITY: Frank G. Finnegan, attorney for the Nevada Yuba County Stockmen's Association and the Nevada Yuba County Landowners Association, who attended a meeting in San Francisco Tuesday with army and air force officers, said yesterday that all told about 150 families are represented in the two associations, whose land lying in Camp Beale, was sold to the U. S. army under the act of eminent domain.

Attending the meeting as representatives of stock growers and land owners were William F. Peckham, chairman of the Nevada Yuba County Stockmen's Association; Clarence Poole, the chairman of the Nevada Yuba County Landowners Association; Chester Wing, secretary of the California Wool Growers Association and A. B. Dick, secretary of the California Cattlemen's Association.

Finnegan stated that the former land owners of Camp Beale and stockmen who once pastured their cattle and sheep there, wanted to know if the air forces could not obtain a better and cheaper site for their proposed target bombing practice than Camp Beale. The air officers admitted they could do so, but they had no money wherewith to purchase such lands. The air officers declared that the proposed bombing practice would not include the whole area of Camp Beale, and that there were portions of it which they might wish to lease to stock raisers. Finnegan said:

"They said that the bombing target would comprise an area of 1000 feet square, and that this would be surrounded by an area of one square mile. The stock growers, however, were not reassured. They seemed to think that animals grazing in the vicinity of the target practice might easily be destroyed.

"In event Camp Beale were declared surplus property, the former land owners, it was generally agreed, should have the first call on repurchase of their acreages at the prices paid by the army, subject to depreciation. For instance some of the land has suffered from erosion and other places where buildings stand, or have stood, pasturage has died out."

Finnegan stated that though the air officers were wholly cooperative the stockmen met with little encouragement, chiefly because there is no money with which to purchase less valuable land for target bombing purposes.

Students Play Adult Day at School

The Nevada City Elementary School tried something new last Thursday, when the students dressed up in their most grown-up finery to play adults, while the teachers for the day were adolescents at their worst.

The girls presented quite a sophisticated appearance at the start of the day, with their long-stockings and high heels, ear rings and hats, but 'tis whispered about that they were a beat-out looking bunch by the end of the day, what with sore feet, frayed nerves due to the difficulty in keeping their stockings up, and sore ears. There were quite a few new moustaches among the young masculine element.

The teachers were relieved of the responsibility of teaching, which was turned over to the students, and spent their time being as annoying as possible. They chewed bubble gum (Mr. Bonner needs more practice—he looked a little messy) threw papers around, whistled and made nuisances of themselves generally. There seemed to be a unanimous decision on the part of most of the student teachers—that they would not pursue the profession further. The day ended with a softball game in which the students took the teachers 3 to 2.

Nevada County Long Ago -

20 YEARS AGO

Nevada City was experiencing a building boom. Four of the handsomest homes to be erected in years were those of Mr. and Mrs. Wade Armstrong on upper Nevada street, the A. H. Tickell home at the head of Nevada St., the Raglan Tuttle home in the south portion of town and the R. N. McCormack home on upper Broad street.

The former Congregational church building on Main street in Nevada City which had recently been purchased by W. R. Jefford and Son and was being remodeled and redecorated to house their funeral parlors had an interesting history. The following is an account taken from the Nevada Democrat of July 8, 1857, relating the laying of the cornerstone on July 4th of the same year: "The cornerstone of the Congregational church was laid on the Fourth of July. A tin box about eight inches square had been prepared in which was deposited a brief history of the church from its organization to the present time, with a list of members; also copies of all the Nevada county papers among which was the Democrat of August 20, 1856, containing an account of the 19th of July previous with a list of the losses. Several hundred characters in replendent other papers were deposited having reference to the early history of the church in this state and county. The box was then sealed up and placed in a hole cut in the cornerstone for that purpose. The space around the box was filled in with pitch, and mortar plaster over it, and the stone was turned over into its place. Mr. H. J. Warner then made a few appropriate remarks. He drew a vivid picture of the condition of society in this place six years ago when the first church was commenced on the site of the present one, and spoke of the gradual improvement which has been going on since that time. Among the listeners we noticed several old citizens of Nevada City who witnessed the great bull and bear fight which came off on July 4, 1851; they surely could appreciate Mr. Warren's remarks. In conclusion he invited such as were inclined to contribute something toward the edifice. Several of those present responded to the call and about one hundred dollars was collected. The church building is to be of brick and made fireproof. Thirty-five foot front on Main street and fifty-five feet in depth. Work will now be pushed ahead vigorously and completed during the summer or fall."

50 YEARS AGO

At a mammoth masquerade ball presented at Armory Hall under the direction of Messrs. Heyer and Guenther the following were selected by the judges to receive prizes for the most original group—the Chinese Native Sons, a group composed of W. M. Grimes, John C. White, W. M. Chase, Archie Rowe, R. Goyne, S. Eads, Will Chappel and L. Gregory; best comedian, Earl Smith, as a clown; best dressed group, the Nations, a group composed of Ed Grissell, Geo. Beckley, Chas. Grissell, Harry Evans, Frank Grissell, Fred Brown, James Hutchinson and James Colley; second best dressed group—bouquet of roses, composed of Bessie Nichols, Gene Nichols, Louis Aumer, May Bennetts and Gertie Bennetts; richest costume for lady, Mrs. Fred Zeither as an Andulusian princess; richest costume for gentleman, Fred Zeitler as the Earl of Leicester; most stylishly dressed lady, Mrs. B. S. Rector as Carmen; best sustained and most original character, W. E. Dunster as the well known mining man, Edwin Tilley. More than two hundred characters in replendent costumes appeared in the grand march, waltz quadrille and the grand review to be judged by Messrs. A. W. Cridder, Will Ashburn and James Graham, whose names were drawn by lot under Sheriff Getchell's supervision.

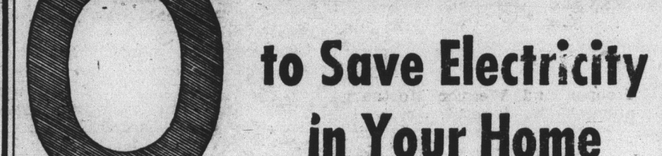
8 WAYS to Save Electricity in Your Home

Seemingly small savings of electricity in your home today are more important than you may realize. Because every time you let a light burn needlessly or flip a switch and allow an appliance to run idly, it puts additional "load" on electric lines. Your extra use, multiplied by thousands of other homes, adds up tremendously. And at the other end of these lines, a generator must meet that load, using hundreds of gallons of precious water per minute. And because of the prolonged drought and extremely light snow pack in the mountains, the conservation of water is even more vital to the general welfare.

Watch Wasteful Use of Lighting and Save Electricity

1. FLICK OFF... lights when you leave a room.
2. TURN OFF... all lights you don't really need.
3. CHECK FOR... lights burning in unused rooms.
4. IT'S EASY... to forget porch and garage lights.

And Watch Wasteful Use of Appliances Too...



5. BURNED TOAST — Toast that goes up in smoke wastes bread...electricity.
6. RAMBLING RADIOS — Radios left to ramble on without listeners shorten tube life and waste electricity.
7. SIZZLING IRONS — Irons that get "too hot" scorch clothes and waste electricity.
8. WEARY WASHERS — Washing machines that run idly wear out sooner and waste electricity.

A SPECIAL MESSAGE TO BUSINESS MEN:
You can help save the day. The Public Utilities Commission's electric conservation regulations provide for a ten per cent reduction in use by stores, shops, restaurants and all business establishments. Rules prohibit illumination of advertising signs, flood lighting, show window lighting, etc., but we ask you not to stop there. Pull the switch on every circuit not vitally necessary. Cut down load in every part of your plant in the public interest.

REMEMBER—ELECTRICITY SAVED IS WATER CONSERVED!

How to Put Up with Women's Styles

When Will Dudley's missus finally gave in to the new-style longer skirts, Will was mighty critical at first. Allowed as how women were a slave to fashion . . . ought to dress to please their husbands and not style designers.

Sue finally reminded Will of his habit of sitting by the radio Saturday afternoons in shirt sleeves and old slippers, listening to the sportcasts with a mellow glass of beer. Suggested that maybe Will was a slave to comfort.

And Will admitted she was right.

Perhaps the way somebody dresses isn't always to our taste—just as Will's glass of beer may be another person's cider.

But from where I sit, those little differences aren't important—unless we go out of our way to make them so, by being hypercritical. As Will says now: "Well, anyway, those long skirts hide a multitude of shins" . . . and lets it go at that!

S. Morgan as Robin Hood, a bottle eight feet tall that walked and danced and dispensed from a porthole miniature flasks of "Robin Hood" whiskey for which A. B. Wolf, Commercial street grocer, was the Nevada City distributing agent.

Just Wonderin'

I Wonder when the singing advertisers
Will sing their last crude song and go their way
And then return to tell us quite concisely
In good plain language what they have to say.

I Wonder if we are not all weary of the singing ads that burst upon us every time we go near the family radio. It is said that the purveyors of radio entertainment and the producers of radio ads, rate the listening public as ten-year-olds and act accordingly. Of course, the child mind lingers many times far beyond its alloted span of years, but some adults have grown up minds and these people may belong to prospective buyers.

There is, however, a bit of psychology in the singing ad; foolish words linked to catchy music, lingers in the memory, repeating itself over and over, till we are literally hounded into purchasing some highly rythmic article. The only escape from this type of hypnosis, is to turn the dial.

The average radio program needs streamlining; producers seem to forget that their programs are for home use as well as for studio listening. With this fact in mind, they should improve their modus operandi. Take the gag for instance; read it backward and it is still a gag. The gagomaniac probably chuckles as he thinks, "a poor thing, but my own." The gagster works overtime and feeds upon the gales of hilarity which—in the studio, follows each one of his abortive attempts at being funny. He would be amazed to learn how many times his witticisms are received by home audiences with never a ripple of laughter, and how often the listener wearies of the studio commotion and tunes out the entire gaggy program. We all like fun, we need it in these stormy times, but much that goes by the name of entertainment adds little to the joy of men or nations.

I Wonder if you have chosen your favorite aspirant to presidential honors. The Republicans have a small army of water boys, each one eager to carry water to the elephant; the Democrats, alas, are mournfully singing, "One Alone To Be My Own;" Wallace is buzzing about like a homeless bee and worrying the Democrats. The deep South is in revolt against the human rights guaranteed to all by our constitution. All this portends a merry-go-round of enormous proportions during the days to come; verily, "the comet now is on its way and sizzling as it flies."

We can only hope that the forthcoming campaign will lack the undesirable features displayed in nearly every presidential campaign since American history began. Let's repudiate the political aspirant who resorts to name calling, smearing and general vituperation. Let's give our attention to the man who stands up and tells his story in plain, understandable English and scorns to resort to the old tricks of former days.

Let's if possible, select men who are capable of leading America through the critical days ahead; they should be "men who match our mountains, men who think clearly and dispassionately, and act courageously, men whose vision is unclouded by prejudice, bigotry and intolerance; gallant men who are above the ugliness of which so many former candidates have been guilty. We shall know such men if they appear and to them we owe our allegiance in this time of stress and confusion. Let's pick our favorites with conscientious care; their fitness for the highest position within the gift of the nation, lays a heavy responsibility upon their shoulders; take time to inspect this record and listen to their words. With so much at stake, the franchise lays a heavy burden of responsibility upon us all.

—Adeline Merriam Conner.

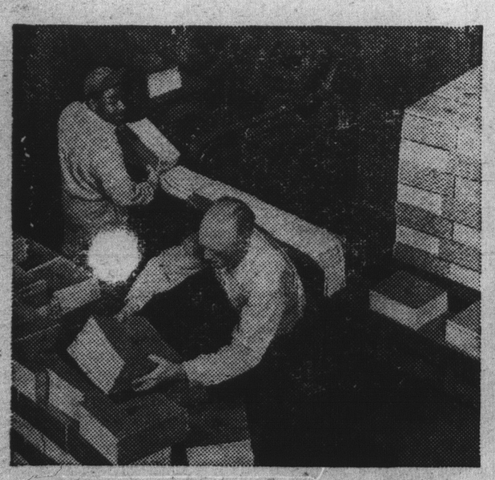
How we write the "BEST-READ BOOK IN TOWN"

1. Check...check and check again—that's how we guard the accuracy of your telephone book. It's a job for specialists, like those above, skilled in working with masses of names and numbers. Others give new numbers to information operators the morning following installation of a telephone.



2. High-speed binders and trimmers like this are kept busy turning out finished directories. We issue 99 different telephone books on the Coast—a total printing of more than 6,000,000 copies a year. And in addition to the daily lists, completely new directories are printed frequently for information operators.

3. It's always handy—there when you need it. Providing this service is an immense job. For example, the paper we used last year would fill three mile long freight trains. Yet publishing directories is just one of many things we do to furnish the best possible service to the West.

Millions of new working dollars...needed to extend and improve service...must come, not from telephone bills, but from thousands of people who put their savings to work in the telephone business. To attract these working dollars, we must pay a reasonable amount for their use. This depends on the sale of our services at fair and adequate prices.
